

THE MEL MARTIN/DON FRIEDMAN DUO

Hearing Mel Martin and Don Friedman in duo is to witness two jazz masters at play, feeding off of and interacting with each other in a way that larger group performances don't generally allow. A true dialogue takes place reflecting their considerable experience and ability to converse in an entirely exposed environment. Mel Martin's saxophones and flute are primed to shine in their tonal beauty along with Don Friedman's ultimate harmonic sophistication and considerable pianistic virtuosity. They will be performing pieces from their recent Jazzed Media recording "Where The Warm Winds Blow" as well as originals, jazz standards and free-form improvised sections.

In the clinic situation, Mel Martin and Don Friedman will demonstrate the methods they use individually and collectively to develop their improvisational skills including melodic variations, harmonic understanding, listening and communication, rhythmic variations and compositional approaches.

Don't miss these two jazz masters in an intimate setting that will optimize the musical communication between musicians and audience.
